

There is no such thing as a spider problem, only a perception of reality problem.

One World

Sustainability Framework

One World

One World offers a framework for creating a future that we want, rather than the future that gets handed down to us. It's not about saving the environment, but rather about saving ourselves who just so happens to rely upon the environment for our very existence. One World provides an understanding of where we are, the need to change our values and beliefs, and how change management, leadership and innovation are vital tools for building an invigorating and prosperous new future.
